THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1864.

THE AUGEAN STABLES.

In countries where the only remedy for abuses is supposed to be a revolution, of course it is a waste of time to be writing day after day calling for reform. We do hope that the people in this country will not turn a deaf ear to our entreaties for a sweeping judicial reformation—nothing is more wanted in Buenos Ayres, indeed it is a necessity equal in importance to the amelioration of the currency. The administration of justice in Buenos Ayres has become so scandalous, the monstrous delays in every lawsuit, the heinous prorastination in criminal trials are no longer to be termed abuses; they are cursed evils which are eating into the vitality of society, and people are becoming so disgusted at the legal humbug procedure going on in the Cabildo that plaintiffs and defendants are now having recourse to the newspapers for redress. In Tuesday's 'Nacion Argentina' a scurrilous lampoon is published respecting some lawsuit with St. Anchorena, which can be only justified on the plea that the courts will not decide the question.

When Flores started his revolution he tried to justify his conduct by the plea that he could not by peaceable means obtain redress in Montevideo. If the legal abuses and evils which are growing up in the rank vegetation of crime be not stopped and cut down, we prophesy that litigants will resort to some more potent way of terminating a lawsuit than lampooning a defendant in the newspapers. Verily it would seem that President Mitre was as ignorant of the abuses going on in our courts as the latest arrived emigrant from Tipperary.

The state of the law courts to-day is such as to suggest the notion that the institutions in this country are framed to protect fraud, rescue the murderer, screen the criminal, and blast and ruin the innocent.

Only the other day an unfortunate Englishman who had been incarcerated for two months was set at liberty. This unfortunate man shot down a murderous gaucho in self-defence; the judge of the district, the neighbours all were acquainted with the facts of the case, there was no charge whatever against this poor man, and yet he was kept in the loathsome prison of Buenos Ayres for nine months. Why was this judge in this land?—What are the tribunals of the country good for?

A frightful attempt at murder was committed three weeks ago in the parish of the Villa Luxan, the victim was cut and wounded and his clothes stolen; the criminal was, thanks to the active and worthy conduct of the judge of the Villa Luxan, at once arrested, the wounded man's clothes were found hid in the villain's rancho. Where is that prisoner now?

Has he been tried in Luxan?
Convicted in Luxan?
Sentenced in Luxan?
and punished in Luxan? NO.

But he is now in the public prison in Buenos Ayres, there probably to remain waiting his trial, unless some indignant but lenient-minded man resorts to the plan of Mr. Archencon's adversary, and lampoons the judge, the court, and the laws of the country where such outrageous criminal procedure exists.

Viewing these judicial abuses in the proper light, we again call upon some of our public men to take the matter up. We believe that if the Government would commission Dr. Quintana, who was a disciple of the lamented Acevedo, to frame a proper criminal code of procedure; this talented young man would introduce many useful reforms. Let us begin by reforming our criminal courts, and conferring the most summary jurisdiction on the judges. The Cabildo is this moment full of criminals who if Justice had her due, should have been long since shot or hung. When we simplify the criminal process, then let us begin with the civil, but let us at all events do something, before the newspapers get all filled with such offensive publications as that which we have to-day before us. Of nothing there cannot be the least doubt, if we do not reform the abuses in the Cabildo, they will go on increasing until the only hope of reformation will be a la Flores.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The Brazilian steamer 'Marquez de Olinda,' will leave Buenos Ayres for Curumba early next week.

A mysterious affair enough is the trunk which the police found on the Western Railway. No owner can be found, and it is feared that there is some foul play at the bottom of it.

One of our colleagues takes great exception to the new sign-board which a go-ahead tradesman in one of our back streets in town has recently put up. Congress' Butchery. Our colleague says very properly that if such scandalous sign-boards are allowed to be put up foreigners will begin to have novel ideas both of our Congressmen and our butchers. None of the Senators or Deputies are butchers: they have no connection whatever with such a business. Our colleague is getting them skinned: there is nothing in it.

We wonder who is the author of the paper money project in Tuesday's 'Tribuna,' if he really thinks to get business man in town has time to read through such a frightfully lengthy document. He signs himself "El Politicastro." Whatever this means we cannot even guess. The scheme may be good enough in itself, but it is so frightfully long that no one has read it. Mr. Politicastro proposes that assignats for land be issued in change for the money, etc., etc. The whole affair is moonshine.

It is a surprising fact that no matter how important the topic, or beneficial the project, they die out remarkably quickly in Buenos Ayres. We all recollect the Mr. Armstrong, in case of Mr. A.'s death We think this is a mistake, and that Mr. John Dugald in the meantime has been very humble. Mr. Armstrong, however, we are happy to say is in the enjoyment of robust health and not likely to require any provision for the contingency which our colleague refers to.

Street Outrages and City Police

Sixty-two policemen by no means constitute a sufficient body for the maintenance of order in a city like Buenos Ayres, now over 150,000 inhabitants. Even ten times the present number would hardly be enough. Dublin, with double our population, has 3000 police; apd not miserable, decrepit, sleepy-looking fellows, but active, stalwart men.

Granted that Buenos Ayres deserves the reputation it enjoys, of being one of the quietest cities in the world, this is no excuse for a total want of police, and if some reform be not made, we shall soon see ourselves the victims of rowdies and burglars, who will be invited hither by the mildness of our police office and the fine field open for their labours.

Among the many changes of the last few years, is to be noted a wonderful increase not only of the Post-office business, but of pocket picking and street outrages. A gentleman might go into any crowd, without the least fear for his time keeper or moreen in his pocket, but he was sure to be unfavourable sign for the civilization of the place. In like manner Rio Janeyro was once very healthy and yellow fever almost unknown, whereas its access is now pestilential. Our moral atmosphere has so changed, that it is no longer necessary to be the victim of pocketpicking, since the Chevaliers d'Industrie stop us in the street and enter our houses uninvited and unexpected.

The most remarkable feature is that this change has been effected by Englishmen, who never have been debut at Hargreave's store, and are daily heard of, but not apprehended. Some people have suggested that there is mission, but we consider them decidedly unofficial, as putting the public on the 'qui vive,' and showing the rottenness of our Police.

The 'Nacion Argentina requires the following cases, in to-day's paper:—

1st. A Spaniard (gringo), accused by his mother of stealing a pair of matches.

2. Charles Edward Duffy. This namesake of the Stuarts, in a state of intoxication, pretended to make himself at home in an old lady's house, and when the owner endeavored to effect an ejectment on the title, he knocked her down.

3. Henry King. This gentleman of equally royal name, got as drunk as a Lord in a gin shop in calle Piedras, and having been so ungallant as to salute a lady subject with a box in the face, was taken to prison.

The Mr. Smith, coming out of a coffee house, 1 Paseo Julio, on Sunday evening was seized by two Englishmen who took his watch and chain, along with $200 depreciated paper.

5th. On Saturday morning some thieves broke into a boot shop in the 11th Square, and carried off everything The police is on their footprints.

To the above we may add a case which occurred on Tuesday night, when the calle Defensa was the scene of alarm by numbers of people rushing down the street and shouting "stop him" after a man who, it was said, had have just murdered a man in calle Peru He was at last seized at San Francisco, but as he could not be positively identified, he was let go.

There are cases of street outrage occurring almost every day, yet it is almost impossible to find a policeman, the city comprising 1600 squares, and half the police force (62) being occupied in domestic pursuits, it is clear we have but 1 to 25 squares, or for 50 squares, or 5,000 inhabitants, The sooner our Government resolve to keep pace with the growing strength of pick-pockets in this city, the better.

British Library Lectures

Some months ago, when a reviving effort was made to raise the British Library to its proper level, it was suggested to get up a course of lectures, and we warmly applauded the idea. Nay, we invited the foreign clergymen, Consul Parish, and others, to commence the series of intellectual 'conversazioni,' but unluckily the subject was dropped

We are, therefore, rejoiced to announce at last the realisation of so good an idea, by the kind offer of the respected and talented English chaplain, Rev. J. Chubb Forde, to deliver a public lecture to-night at the British Library. Admission will be free not only for subscribers, but all the English-speaking public. We have not learned the subject of the discourse, but have no doubt that it will be of a character to interest every one.

This is the only country boasting considerable literary advancement, in which facilities are unknown, and yet this is a cheap and agreeable manner of improving ourselves, for all persons of decent education, or much experience, can manifestly enlighten their neighbours on at least one subject, to which they may have devoted years of study or labor. Young people will especially be gainers, and acquire a taste for information, which is at once a laudable ambition, a personal accomplishment, and an innocent pleasure.

But it is unnecessary to urge the utility of an instructive recreation so popular in our native country. We merely remind the friends of the British Lecture of the Rev. Mr. Forde will take place to-night at seven o'clock, and we hope to see a good attendance. The American pastor and Dr. Hutchinson are also first rate lecturers, and if they generously aid in a fortnightly series of scientific lectures, we shall be able to show Argentines that Englishmen, Irishmen, Scotchmen, and Americans claim a portion of the laurels of our South American Athens.

REVISTA DE B. AYRES

No. 14 of this highly interesting serial, the most valuable literary production of the River Plate, and perhaps of this continent, has appeared. The present number is not so interesting to the general reader as the predecessors, two thirds of its pages being occupied by Sor Guido Spano's reply to the historian Deminguez. The dispute seems to be whether the project of leading the Argentine patriots across the Andes (which resulted in giving freedom to Chile and Peru) was due to General Guido or to the immortal San Martin. The question becomes tedious when spun out through 120 pages.

The graceful writer and historian Bartolome Mitre, at present chief magistrate of the republic, contributes a very poetical novel entitled "A Year of Independence, being the cruise of the 'Argentina' in the Pacific and Indian oceans: it contains some daring exploits by Admiral Brown and Capt. Buchardo.

Don Alberto Gann, a Chilian writer, is author of an entertaining novel called "Payment of debts" Customs in Cuchabamba, in eight paragraphs, by Dastot John B. Scrivener will be read with much interest by all who wish to learn something of Bolivia, its history, people, climate &c.

Dr. Navarro Viola's speech at the Peruvian Meeting in Colon theatre is, as we remarked on the occasion, a finished piece of rhetoric: he adds further dates, shewing that the cause of Liberty has two firm champions in the courts of St James's and Washington.

We warmly recommend this publication to those who would learn something about those countries, also to foreigners studying Spanish to whom it would prove an excellent reading-book and in fine to all lovers of a sound and elevated literature.

MR. LANUZ AGAIN.

Yesterday this spirited wholesale merchant came again before the public, on the subject of the paper dollar, and certainly his last article is one of the most to the point we have read. Owing to want of time and space we are obliged to defer publishing this interesting article until to-morrow Mr. Lanuz proves that the Province of Buenos Ayres has lost during the last four years by the depreciation of its paper money the enormous sum of FIVE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILLIONS of paper money. In fact, to be plain spoken, Mr. Lanuz proves that Buenos Ayres is going headlong to the D — l on account of the rotten state of the currency.

It is much to be regretted that we have not more men amongst us of the Lanuz stamp. There are too many of the same school as the milk and water "Antenor." To-morrow our readers will have an opportunity of judging for themselves the merits of Mr. Lanuz's astounding revelations.

Arrest of a Refugee Spanish Governor

Don Jose Augustine Arguilles, Governor of a Cuban Province, to whom the Governor-General consided the duty of purchasing a cargo of 300 Africans, sold the negroes, pocketed the availe, together with funds in his possession belonging to his Government, and 'skedaddled.' Learning that he embarked for New York, the Governor-General despatched an agent to Washington. The Spanish Minister applied to the State Department for authority to arrest and remand the runaway Governor. This duty was entrusted to Marshal Murphy, who found the gentleman at the St. Nicholas Hotel, where he was arrested. At one o'clock the Marshal took his prisoner on board a small steamer and conveyed to Sandy Hook, where he remained until the regular steamer for Havanna came out, and then transferred him. The renegade Governor is therefore on his way back to Havanna Counsel were employed, but their efforts for a release were unsuccessful. Application then went before the Grand Jury, with a complaint against the Marshal, whose action was authorised by our Government upon a requisition of the Spanish Minister.

THE SULTANA PROTOCOL

At a meeting held in the office of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Edward Thornton, Minister Plenipotentiary of H.B.M. Queen Victoria, for the purpose of arranging, in a friendly manner, the claims on the Argentine Government by the British Minister, for damages suffered by British subjects, by reason of the Decree of February 13, 1845, forbidding the entry into the port of Buenos Ayres of vessels and cargoes which have touched at Montevideo, claims which the Argentine Government believes it should not acknowledge. It was agreed—

1st. That it shall be submitted to the arbitration of a friendly Government the question whether the Government is obliged, to pay these damages.

2nd. That within the period of six months, from the date hereof of the acceptance of the arbiter, all the proofs necessary for the decision of the question shall be produced by each party.

3rd. The right to make these claims being decided, such claims shall be classified according to the agreements or treaties at present in existence between the Argentine Republic and Great Britain, dated August 21, 1868, and August 18, 1859.

4. This arrangement shall be submitted to the arbitration of the Argentine Congress, and of the British Government, with the least possible delay.

RUFINO ELIZALDE,
EDWARD THORNTON.
Buenos Ayres, July 15, 1864.

Mr. WELL'S PARACHUTE

The event of Antonio Pecmaez's heroic and unexpected ascent on last Sunday must have disappointed the public, and doubts are openly expressed, that Mr. Wells has not the necessary courage and tact to come down in a parachute. To this the daring aeronaut replies by challenging the public to bet 20,000 dols against him. The editor of the 'Tribuna' and some members of the Municipality have opened an opposition list, those on the left backing Mr. Wells, and the others betting against in sums of about $900 each. As yet there are but 6 for, and 1 (Snr Varela) against, but we have no doubt the list will be filled in a couple of days. He is to descend from a height of 1000 feet in a parachute, on a day of his own choice, and in case the jury decide that he has lost, the money forfeited is to be distributed among 20 distressed families.

Mr. Wells states that he suffered terribly from cold last Sunday, being immersed in the water for about ten minutes. He was surprised at seeing the boy going up in the air, and fearing he would relax his hold and fall on his (Well's) head in the car, he sang out to endeavor to slide down to the cord, so that they might both descend by the parachute, but Antonio said he could not disentangle himself from the folds of the sail, as he had been in the enormous sum of FIVE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILLIONS of paper money. In fact, to be plain spoken, Mr. Lanuz proves that Buenos Ayres is going headlong to the D — l on account of the rotten state of the currency.

It is much to be regretted that we have not more men amongst us of the Lanuz stamp. There are too many of the same school as the milk and water "Antenor." To-morrow our readers will have an opportunity of judging for themselves the merits of Mr. Lanuz's astounding revelations.

OBITUARY

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

The telegraph brings us the mournful and unexpected news of the death of the most charming of American novelists, and one of the foremost descriptive writers in the language. Nathaniel Hawthorne was found dead in his bed yesterday morning, at Plymouth, N. H., where, on the commencement of one more of his earliest friends, he was spending some days for the benefit of his health. Mr. Hawthorne was all but 60 years of age, having been born at Salem, Mass, on the 4th of July, 1804. Of his ancestry, the current biographies profess to find records in the witch trials, the era of Salem, and by the same authorities, he is affiliated to a line of seafaring colonists who combined the pursuits of agriculture and commerce on a scale of uncertain magnitude, but with steady perseverance. The salient points in his private and official life are briefly these: His father having died at Havana in 1810, young Hawthorne was shortly afterward put under the charge of a farmer at Raymond, Maine, although only with a view to the recruitment of his health, which was delicate. He entered Bowdoin College, Maine, (where Franklin Pierce and George B. Cheever were his fellow-students,) in 1825, and at the close of his collegiate career he settled in Salem, but in a future time later (in 1838) found him a Government position as a gauger in the Boston Custom house, under Mr. Bancroft, the historian, and other of the friends of the Van Buren Administration. When the Whigs came into power in 1841, Hawthorne lost his appointment, and, conceiving (probably like Shelley, Coleridge and Lovell) the idea of a pantocracy, he joined the famous Brook Farm Association, or community, and there, fully satisfied with this experience of "a perfect state of society" to Boston in 1843. Here he married and made his home, subsequently for some years in "the Old Manse" at Concord, Mass. His party affiliations again brought him official position and promotion, on the accession of the Polk Administration, and he received the appointment of Surveyor of the port of Salem. When the Whigs came into power, Hawthorne returned to his retreat and to his studies among the hills of Berkshire. Once again, in 1852, he was tendered the question whether the Government—the Consulate at Liverpool, one of the most lucrative appointments in the gift of the President being placed at his disposal. Mr. J. Pierce, party, no doubt, as a tribute of long standing personal friendship, and partly as a party measure, was appointed to it as a party penman. His remaining days after his return from Liverpool, were spent at Concord.

Hawthorne's literary life commenced at Salem on the close of his college days. Leading, for several years about 1828 to 1832 a solitary life, he produced a series of sketches, tales and romances, some of which were found worthy of revival in his maturer years under the titles of Twice Told Tales and Mosses, followed, after his retirement from the Boston gauger ship, the paper called Mosses from an Old Manse, succeeded by the most widely known of all his works, The Scarlet Letter, in 1850; by the House of Seven Gables, in 1851; by the Blithedale Romance, in 1852; by the Marble Faun, in 1860; and by Our Old Home, his last work, in 1863. Such a catalogue would be difficult of enumeration. They continued to grace the pages of the best contemporary periodicals, occasionally, up to the time of his death.

Hawthorne, in his sudden and comparatively early death, was saved the bitterness of sinking into that which held the aspirant for permanent renown—that of seeing the honor and glory of youth extinguished in his own presence. The Force of Beauty and of Reason were conspicuous in all he did to the last. A profound apprehensiveness of truth, a deep sincerity and unswerving kindness uniformly to the end, restrained and modulated his facile humor; and probably no class of his admirers will be more deeply touched with the sad intelligence of his death than our cousins of the Old Home, whose national and social foibles receive such humorous treatment in the last important effort of his pen,

THE ROSARIO MAILS

The 'Ferro Carril' of the 26th gives an account of the opening of the Grand Central Hotel, the proprietors, Messrs. Perkins and Wilkinson giving a banquet to 50 persons: appropriate toasts were drunk, and the viands and arrangements reflected great credit on the manager, Mr. Yates, who gives us an augury of the great impulse to Rosario, heralded by Mr. Wheelwright. The number of shares, on which the first call has been paid in Rosario, amounts to 1088, the Maua Branch Bank (69) being the largest subscriber. No fewer than 76 bullock-carts and a troop of mules arrived in the last three days from the provinces, with hides, flour, copper, &c.; those from Mendoza were 58 days on the road.

The news from Rioja and Catamarca is satisfactory. In the former province, Governor Campos was sworn in, amid the general rejoicing of the people, now free from the Banda-avecindeño clique. Governor Maubecin has issued a general amnesty, which enable over 1000 Catamarcans to return peaceably to their homes.

The 'Ferro-Carril' does honor to the press, by condemning the scurrilous and disgraceful letter of Major Calvete against Senator Piñero.

PARANA.

We have the 'Litoral' and 'Parana' to the 23d inst. The only novelty of some magical performance at the theatre by a wizard named Bosno. Dr. Carriego still keeps up a laudable agitation about the murder of Victor Gomez, who received forty three shots from a police-officer. It appears the authorities refuse to punish the assassin. The election of the new Bishop also occupies attention.

SAN NICOLAS.

The 'Eco del Norte' of the 20th has an interesting account of Mr. Wheelwright's reception at Rosario. The Municipal elections have been confirmed. Sec. Garcia is praised for several camp reforms, which we hope are true.

Arrival of an English Yacht.

Yesterday the first English yacht ever known to have entered the port of Buenos Ayres arrived. with the undaunted owner on board, Capt. Hanham. We welcome this intrepid gentleman to Buenos Ayres, and hope that he will enjoy his rather perilous trip to South America.

FAREWELL.

On Tuesday evening a Farewell Party was given to a young Irish lady, who leaves by the Mercury.

FRENCH PACKET.

The 'Saintonge' is not expected to arrive to-day, as it is thought her repairs at Rio will detain her one or two days.

CRIMINAL COURTS.

The following trials are on the lists; George Moore, theft; Juan Duran, rape; Santiago Perrin, murder; Ramon Garzon, murder; Loxano Peralta, robbery; L Santa Cruz and Ignacio Silva, riot and assault.

FUNERAL.

The remains of Dr. Fernando Cruz Cordaro, who died in Paris on the 21st of August, 1863, arrived in port and were conveyed yesterday, at 2 p. m., from the Paseo Julio to the Recoleta.

In re Jacob George, Bankrupt.

The creditors of this estate are summoned to a final hearing on the 30th inst., 2 p. m., at the Tribunal of Commerce.

Gentlemen,

I am happy to inform you that the present arrangements, relative to the forthcoming appearance of the above company, are highly satisfactory.

NORTHERN RAILWAY.

To the Editors of the Standard

July 20th 1864.

Gentlemen,

I have on more than one occasion assured you that I am no partner of Mr. Murray's in the contract of the Northern line, but the agent of Mr. Crosky, with whom Mr. Murray is copartner in this contract. You will readily believe it is to me most objectionable to see my name thus prominently put forward, in a capacity to which I have no pretension, and beg of you to take note of this.

Your's respectfully,

ROBERT MILLS.

The brokers are all buying, at least so it is said on 'Change. This is a bad sign for the paper dollar. Specie could not be bought, and was quoted as low as to say that it is scarce. Owing to the leaving of the English packet, the attendance on 'Change was poor to-day. Mr. I. B. Hall, one of our reporters, leaves in the packet; during his absence Mr. Twyford we understand will take the management of his business.

The sale of wool which we referred to yesterday at 117 per ar., was of the last not of the coming clip. We have to thank the broker for the mistake. The sale however is not altogether destitute of importance inasmuch as it is part of a lot of wool which a few months ago was sold at 200 per ar. We believe the buyer is M. Jolly Owing to this sale having been published in the first of the new clip, it caused the greatest notice in the plazas and on the Bolsa—barometers were flying about in all directions to discover the buyer's name and also the buyer's.

About 2 o'clock a rumour spread on change to the effect that an English yacht had arrived bringing the intelligence of Grant's defeat. This however seems to be a hoax, as the yacht in question left Montevideo at the same time as some of the steamers, and no such news transpired. The rumoured defeat was only credited by those who wished the news to be true.

M. Lenoir's article in this morning's 'Nucion Argentina' was greatly discussed; the brokers say it is all nonsense, as merchants regard with great favor Mr. L's idea in the paper-money question.

The Provincial Government is appears in the great exchange block in M. Gonzalez's way to fix the currency A meeting had been arranged to take place last night, but not one of the Provincial Government would attend—in the consequence is that the National Finance Minister despairs of being able to effect any reform.

The shipbrokers did nothing to-day, in fact business in their line is remarkably dull; one of these worthy gentlemen communicates the statement that good mestiza sheep are scarce in Entre Rios; on the contrary he states that Mr. Black of Gualeguay will sell 20,000.

The season of slaughtering is fast drawing to a close. We hear of one or two who have stopped working, and no doubt a consequence working until the end of November. The stock of jerked beef is perfectly enormous in Buenos Ayres, 150,000 quintals, and up the Rivers 450,000 quintals. We fear that jerked beef must come down.

We extract the following remarks about wool, &c., from the circular of Messrs. Leeming:—

Wool—Arrivals during the month amount to 20,000 arrobes. The article continues in demand at full rates, and sales reach 70,000 arobes, leaving in store some 80,000 arrobes of inferior description. There still remain in the country from 60 to 70,000 ar: robes to be brought in as soon as the roads improve.

Tallow—Arrivals from the commencement of the season, 2,000,000 arrobes.

Cordoyo, &c.—We notice the following sales:—3000 bales Cordova, at 24 rls to 24 rls, duty paid; 1000 bales (250lb) Santiago at 39 rls to 42 rls, purchasers paying duties. A parcel of 1000 bales common Cordoba, at 24 rls to 26 rls, and some small lots of Corrientes at 27 rls; both duty paid.

Slaughtering—In active demand at rising prices, and very few coming forward on account of the bad state of the roads.

Hair—Small arrivals—sells freely at full prices.

Respecting charters the following remarks from Messrs. H. A. Creen and Co.'s circular for the packet, will be found interesting:—

Freights—For suitable vessels to load in the River advanced rates have been paid, but vessels on the berth in this port lead slowly.

Antwerp—During the last fortnight a good many bales have offered, and on account of the scarcity of vessels an advance has been obtained.

France—There is very little cargo offering, but owing to the French vessels in port being very few, rates have not follen

United States—There is a great falling off in shipments both for New York and Boston.

Freights in general—Rates keep firm, owing to Danish and German flags being refused. We are still in want of several suitable neutral vessels to load in the rivers.

The number of vessels which have left and are about to leave in ballast, we regret to say, is great, and would lead one to suppose that cargoes are scarce, when such is not the case. The following are the names of the vessels leaving and left in ballast :—

Robert Clough, Ludovic Charles, Midas, Costa Rica, Pyrmont, Hound, Florence Nightingale, Julio Mathilde, Alliance, Maria Sophia, Margaretha, Bolivia, F. Arago, Johanno, G. Nicolaus, Columbus, Orient.

There are no disengaged British vessels in port, and the following are the names of Continental ones—the Lima, the Anne Helene, the Patria, the Prince de Reins, the Arima, the Falke, and the Orion.

SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAYA & CO.,

No. 163 calle de Cangallo,
BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank to which they have the most confidence. The Bank of Maya and Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the needs of depositors in that city a safe and profitable depository for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing, and already present a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been reaped in this city by an immense number of clerks, artizans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, on lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Maya and Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities to this city, and will open a Savings Bank at No. 163 Calle Cangallo, from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. on Week Days, and on Sundays and Holidays from Ten a.m. to Twelve m. for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Maya and Co. are also prevented that this new branch of their business will receive interest similar to the ordinary rate of discount of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Ayres, September 13, 1862.

Per Maya and Co.,
